

Andrew Tan

Teacher of Design and the Built Environment

Originally from Singapore, Andrew began his career in advertising, working across creative and commercial roles supporting multinational clients. After moving to the UK, he pursued a degree in Landscape Architecture and went on to work on a broad range of public and private-sector projects in the built environment.

Andrew has a strong track-record in driving outstanding academic performance across a range of design-oriented subject areas, building his learners' capabilities in creativity and innovation, as well as supporting effective learning.

His broad-based industry background allows him to pass on his experiences, knowledge as well as his understanding of design and the built environment. He enjoys helping learners understand the realities of the creative industry, and how they can develop a passion for architecture, the environment and design into a lifelong career, turning their ideas into reality.
