

My name is Angela Ayetey, a Business Lecturer for the past nine years. I studied business at A' levels, then carried on to achieving a degree in Business Administration and a Master's in Business Administration (MBA). I studied PGCE which enabled me to achieve my qualification for teaching.

I am very passionate about the progress and success of young children, and I enjoy seeing them develop their skills and put into practice whatever knowledge has been acquired. I try to make a difference in their life by building a relationship with them and inspire them to achieve their aim. I gain satisfaction by watching them grow, especially when they complete university and send me graduation pictures.

It's a pleasure and an honour teaching, since I learn a lot from children, as they ask questions which help me to research to enable me to answer them correctly this can be rewarding.
