

Omolola Hundeyin - Teaching Assistant

Lola studied Insurance and worked in the insurance brokerage industry both in Africa and the UK.

She later went to do Soft Furnishings at the London Metropolitan University; on completion she set up her own business designing and making soft furnishings.

To pursue her teaching passion, she embarked on a teacher training programme – PTTLS to enable her to teach post 16; this she did in collaboration with couple of housing associations teaching their unemployed tenants Soft Furnishing and starting up in business. This was a success as it got some of them into self-employment.

In 2016 Lola started her Teaching Assistant career and has worked in different boroughs both in primary and secondary schools respectively. She believes every child is unique and have a purpose and her mission is to help them achieve their full potential.