

Samantha Hibbert

I am a seasoned Data Manager with a wealth of experience in the realm of data analysis. My professional journey has been enriched by my role in managing data for 11 London Local Authorities, where I've honed my skills and contributed significantly to the field.

Beyond my professional endeavours, I am fuelled by a genuine passion for training and continuous learning. I thrive on acquiring new skills and staying abreast of the latest developments in the ever-evolving landscape of data management. This enthusiasm extends to sharing knowledge, as I find great joy in empowering others through training programs and collaborative learning environments.