

Sian Cullen

Assistant Head of Year

After finishing my degree in Health and Social Care in 2016, I jumped straight into a career within education. I have been working within a secondary school for the past 7 years and have loved building my confidence and gaining new skills. Within this time, I have taken part in the Duke of Edinburgh programme, began my own extra-curricular clubs and undergone a range of SEN related courses. Growing up in Newham has allowed me to relate with the young people I work with and I am extremely passionate about all learners being given equal opportunities to succeed. I am passionate about the work I do and strive to work my hardest in encouraging a safe and happy environment for all.
